

Small points: independent simulated datasets; large points: arithmetic means.
Same fitted model and driver target for all baselines. No inference from grid-cell replication.